ARREST MAN IN 'PAJAMA GIRL'S' MYSTERY FALL

Harry Johnson of Essex st., Cambridge, in Hingham District Court today, was held in $1000 on a charge of assault on Mabel Hopkins, pretty 23-year-old stenographer of the same address, found unconscious, clad only in a silk pajama jacket, outside a Nantasket hotel.

The girl is at the Massachusetts General Hospital suffering from injuries to the head and spine, and for that reason Johnson's case was continued until Friday.

Miss Hopkins recovered consciousness at the hospital, but refused to talk, and, according to police, although Johnson admitted she shared a room with him, he denied any knowledge of her fall from a window.

Mrs. Rebecca Maguire of Haverhill, Cambridge, occupying a cottage about 20 yards from the hotel, was awakened by what she thought was the whispering of a door. On investigating, Mrs. Maguire found the nearly nude form of an unconscious girl in the alley beside the hotel.

Dr. J. H. Shaw took the girl to the Walter H. Sturge Hospital, and later she was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Mr. William H. Armour found Harry Johnson asleep in a room on the second floor of the hotel, above where the girl had been found. Awakened and asked where the girl was, he was with him, Johnson said.

"There is no girl. I have no girl with me," according to the police. Shown the girl's clothing and the trousers of pink silk pajamas, Johnson finally admitted the girl was with him, gave her name and address, but declared he knew nothing of what had become of her until the officers told him.

He said he and Miss Hopkins, with another couple, registered at the hotel at an early hour.

Girl Bandit Sobs Her Way Into Poker Party

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Employing "manhood's chivalrous reaction" to a woman's sob to gain her end, a young woman held up a poker game in a Coney Island basement early today with two men companions and secured with $2000 cash and $3000 worth of jewelry.

Two tables were running in the basement, one of the players being a notorious off duty and in civilian clothes, when a knock was heard on the door. No one paid attention. Then the sound of a woman's frantic sobs penetrated the locked door and play automatically ceased.

"Stick 'em up," said the young woman who had been sobbing, but was now successfully pointing a pistol. She held the gun until her two companions had collected all the wallets, stick pins, rings and the "kitty" from the tables, and then covered the retreat to a waiting automobile.

SUICIDE AFTER TROLLEY JUMPS EMPLOYER DIES

Providence, Sept. 17—Six passengers aboard a suburban electric car from Providence to Apogon, had a narrow escape from death or serious injury when the car plunged from the rails and fell into a railroad cut at Greenwood, at the same time that a New Haven express train sped by.

The forward vestibule of the wrecked trolley was within a few feet of the speeding express train. A broken journal box is believed to have caused the front truck of the trolley car to jump the tracks.

The point at which the derailment occurred has been known for many years as Dead Man's curve, because of the toll of lives it has taken in motor car accidents.

ROMA DELAYED BY DEFECTIVE PROPELLER

Old Orchard Beach, Sept. 17—All those that the Maine-to-Rome flight of the sesquiplane Roma, would start today, was abandoned shortly after noon when the propeller of the giant Hellanca plane was found to be out of "line" and a leak was discovered in one of her gas tanks.

If the propeller can be adjusted in time, the start of the 4000-mile flight will be made from the sands here shortly after dawn tomorrow. The gas tank leak, near the pump valve, can be repaired in a few minutes, but Frank Staysbrook, Frank Whitney, motor expert, was not certain, but was a new propeller would have to be used on the Roma's drive shaft.

Rayback discovered the trouble while going over the plane in her hangar at Scarsboro after a heavy rain had caused postponement of the start this morning.

Piero Bonelli, navigator and radio operator, joined his companions, Cesare Albini, Roger Q. Williams and Leon M. Paselli here today, ready for the hop. Bonelli reports favorable weather over the Atlantic for the 24 hours beginning at mid night tonight and every effort to start tomorrow will be made.

physicians at the hospital. The young Mexican, who was apprehended after a chase through West End streets, is lodged in a cell in the 10th st. station, charged with murder—first degree with a knife.

The attack took place shortly after Mrs. Jensen returned to the apartment which police say was occupied by the couple. Bellows is said to have recognized her for remaining away from the apartment, causing fear of being out with another and threatening to kill her.

CHASED BY VICTIM
During the height of the argument that ensued, Bellows snatched a razor from a kitchen shelf and, throwing her to the floor, pulled the razor across her neck.

Leaving her moaning on the kitchen floor, Bellows ran from the house and was followed by Mrs. Jensen, who collapsed when she reached the street. She was picked up by Louis L. Fleckman of Anderson st., West End, and taken to the hospital in his automobile.

Attracted by the woman's screams, policeman Edmund Shaw of Jay st. station, caught a glimpse of the fleeing figure of the assailant and gave chase. He followed Bellows up Garden st., into Berwick st., and then to an alley off Goodwin pl., where he made the capture.

WIFE OF PETTY OFFICER
"Go ahead and shoot me if you want," Bellows is alleged to have said, when the officer pressed his revolver against the prisoner's ribs. Bellows told police that he met Mrs. Jensen about three months ago when he came to Boston. He said she is married to Edward Jensen, a petty officer in the coast guard service, and that her house is at 141 Denver st., Bangor.

He loudly admitted that he slashed her throat, according to the police, declaring that he learned she was "furious" with another man. At Bangor, however, the slashed woman's sister, Mrs. Perry Topping of Denver st., declared Mrs. Jensen never lived on that town.

Mrs. Topping has been caring for the 35-year-old daughter of Mrs. Jensen for the past year. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Jensen lived in Maine, according to the sister. The husband is a sailor now, believed stationed at Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard.

WHERE STORMS CAUSED DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

BOSTON, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1928

This is an artist's conception of how the hurricane hit San Juan, Puerto Rico, which owes its origin to Ponce de Leon. The entire island was swept by the hurricane, and Governor Horace M. Towner estimated that half the population of nearly 2,000,000 was homeless. It is expected that the property loss will exceed $100,000,000. The death list is mounting hourly.

Casdel Pastor, palatial home of John Shepard, prominent department store owner of Boston and Providence, at 127 Dunbar rd., Palm Beach, was in the path of the tropical hurricane that swept Florida. The Weather Bureau at Washington stated the hurricane was worse than that of 1926.

Some idea of the damage done to Millionaires row in Southeast Fourteenth st., Miami, by the 1926 hurricane is obtained from this view showing the district littered with debris and buildings stripped so that the bedroom furniture can be seen through the gaping walls.

This photo, taken after the disastrous hurricane in 1926, shows houseboats and yachts strewn along the shore. Having been warned of the approaching hurricanes hundreds of automobiles started north in an effort to get out of reach of the storm.

RUMMAGE SALE MARKS END OF PETERBOROUGH'S SEASON

Betty Alden Notes Society's Effort for Charity

TO FINANCIAL BETTERMENT in the rummage sale! It is a sure fire success, this, when philanthropic forces are reaching for the peak and the replenishment looms an imperative duty. Mrs. Horace Morison, prominent summer resident of lovely Peterborough, finds that an annual rummage sale staged at the very tail end of the Peterborough summer season does wonders financially for two good causes, the local Legion post and the Christopher Shop in Boston, adding many golden ducats to each depleted pocketbook. So, today, as per arrangement, motored piled high with rummage disgorge themselves at the town hall, and tomorrow an endless collection of this and that is disposed of.

RUMMAGE EXCHANGED FOR corn of the realm, please everyone, the purchaser and the seller, and so contentment reigns in both camps. The rummage sale is a more or less willardian gesture at the season's end in Peterborough, before the autumnal season. The entire countryside heaves in soft September haze, and October comes upon to paint flaming reds and golds across the hills. But schools and cities call and Sylvia's beauties must be left. Little Miss Mary Morison departs for Foxcroft and scholastic duties, and Miss Babette goes to Miss Winsor's, while Mrs. Morison and the second daughter, Miss Elizabeth, contemplates a descent on the city to commence the arduous round of a "first winter."

A SINGLE WINTER DEVOTED to the frivolous social whirl is Miss Morison's program; one winter and no more. I'll be frank... your trouble "B.O." (Baldy Cole)

How he turned my failure into success

"B.O."—my trouble? For a moment I saw red. But Atkinson was a decent sort and I knew he was talking for my own good. Besides, I was slipping. I looked like blazes. I had plenty of good leads—but no orders. If I just seemed that every time I called and had a prospect warmed up, he'd suddenly lose interest and want to be rid of me.

I had me worried. But I never suspected the truth until Atkinson tipped me off. Today I'm not head-capped by "B.O."—you know, Baldy. Let me tell you the little secret that changed my whole future and helped me win success.

No fear of "B.O." now

Like every normal, healthy person, I perspire. But I never noticed any unpleasant odor about me, so I just assumed I was all right.

That's where I was fooled. When we get used to an odor, we don't detect it. Unknowingly, I had offended. But since I've changed to Lifebuoy, I've said goodbye to "B.O."—worry for good. A Lifebuoy bath certainly makes me feel clean and fresh. Its antiseptic, rather deodorizing, action has kept me free of the "B.O." I'm getting used to faster than ever.

Great for skin, too!

I like the way Lifebuoy lathers and keeps the skin so nice and smooth. My wife loves it for her complexion. The youngsters all use it, too. We feel the Lifebuoy really saves us a lot of sickness by removing germs. Lifebuoy has a nice clean smell that rinses away completely.

Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

HEARST

A mighty force in the life of America

MEN build bridges and locomotives, ships and wharves, factories and warehouses—because these things serve them. All institutions are measured by their service to mankind. Steel rails and copper wires have stretched out to every nook and corner of the world, not because the railroad and the telephone are marvelous inventions, but because they give a needed and admirable service.

Of all institutions, that most closely linked with the lives of men and women, more used by them and of more value than any other, more helpful, more far-reaching in its influence, and more potent in its results, is a good newspaper.

It becomes great because its service is great, and its growth and prestige are in direct proportion to the service it renders.

For this reason, the Hearst Newspapers, which for forty-one years have devoted themselves to the interests of the public, have been the champions of the American citizen and have put his welfare and his happiness above all else, have become the greatest and most powerful newspaper organization in the world.

They comprise twenty-eight newspapers—with a circulation of over five million—and they have gained and hold their vast army of more than twenty million readers because they have never betrayed them.

DESPERATE DRIVE FOR VOICES IN NORTHWEST, ANALYST SAYS

LA FOLLETTE VOTE OF 1924 IS SOUGHT BY BOTH PARTIES

By CHARLES N. WHEELER

(Noted Political Analyst)

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Things are not quite so rosy for the Hoover-Curtis ticket in the Near Northwest as the Republican Candidates' Publicity Bureau's output might indicate.

Information that does not admit of questioning supports the affirmation that Raskob is not entirely "talking through his hat" when he speaks somewhat hopefully of Minnesota.

Undercover scouts, who have been through the north half of Wisconsin and Minnesota the past three weeks, report that these aspects of the battle there are visible to the naked eye everywhere.

1.—That Raskob is not harping on the wrong tree when he sends men and money to Minnesota in the hope of winning much of the La Follette vote of 1924 to Smith.

2.—That the South sentiment is healthy, vibrant and proudly caroling.

3.—That were it not for interference in some spots the Democratic ticket would have almost as good a chance as it did in 1916, and, maybe, a little better.

The main Democratic strategy is that Governor Smith has a chance of carrying the State provided the La Follette vote of 1924 can be swung to the Tammany standard.

JACKSON STRATEGY
Interpreted on this basis, some propaganda in Governor Smith's acceptance speech takes on a high significance. It is now seen that in Raskob's plan the La Follette vote was all important and must be led.

*No segregation of votes.

(La Follette in 1924 polled 231 votes in the northwest time far less than in 1916. In 1924 he polled 10,012 in Pennsylvania, and 5842 votes in Wisconsin.)

sarling farmers might support La Follette is a horse of another color trying to make them believe that the Tammany farmers' hearts are about to break with anguish over the plight of the tillers of the soil.

The Democratic leaders go back to 1916 for an argument in support of their hope that Minnesota might land in the Smith column. Trust company, the affair was a fair indication of what the State is capable of doing when the Democratic party puts forth a candidate of unusual personality as well as a record for honest and efficient administration.

Although President Wilson was running in the Northwest on the sole issue of "He kept us out of war," Hughes carried the State of Minnesota, and the twelve Minnesota votes were not needed.

Although Hoover now has the lead in both the Hearst straw ballot and in local canvasses, Raskob was yet got a good run for his money, though defeated at the final by a nose.

LEAGUE TO ASK U. S. HELP WITH REPARATIONS

Geneva, Sept. 17 (AP)—The league prevailed today that the United States undoubtedly would be asked to participate in the declaration of the commission of experts that will work for a complete and definite settlement of the reparations problem.

After a series of conversations, Great Britain, France, Germany, an agreement appeared to be that negotiations for special official negotiations looking to evacuation of the Rhineland.

In some circles the opinion was held that discussion of reparations would lead to a discussion of war debts in general.

Disarmament were issued, however, that Europe had any wish to drag the United States into the reparations discussion. Nevertheless, the general opinion appeared to be that nothing sound, complete or final could be achieved without the participation of America either through governmental representatives or financiers who would reflect Washington's views.

2 PRE-HISTORIC CIVILIZATIONS IN AMERICAS

New York, Sept. 17 (AP)—Two prehistoric civilizations existed in the western hemisphere and were not recently discovered with such certainty as the International Congress of Americanists was told today.

The Congress is meeting here for a week, attended by delegates from a score of foreign nations, to discuss the origins of American Indian culture and compare notes on evidences that they migrated from the old world thousands of years ago.

The cultural relations of North and South America were traced through archaeological remains to Prof. A. L. Kroeber of the University of California. The two civilizations, he said, were "Meso-Guatemalan" and "Ibero." In that intervening region he found evidences of a civilization common to both areas, he said.

FROM COMMON SOIL
The inference is that the cultural peaks of Mexico and Peru are the peaks not genetically but in connection, but are localized developments, out of a common soil.

Professor Kroeber said that "the best conceivable connection with the eastern hemisphere" does not explain the new known of these two civilizations.

Dr. Max Uhle, of the Academy of History, of Ecuador, said he believed that the culture in these civilizations is of Asiatic origin. He said that he believed American civilization originated in Central America.

A feminist custom that came from Africa, after Columbus' day, was described by Dr. Melville J. Herskovits of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. He said Dr. Morton C. Kahn of Cornell University Medical college spent this same year among the bush negroes in Dutch Guiana, South America. Their people was to be born the amount of African material culture and ceremonial surviving in these South American tribes.

PARTLY AFRICAN
The social organization of the individual tribes is partly African, Dr. Herskovits said. "A capitalist, aristocratic and a female officer are to be found in each village as well as a council which finally decides with regard to all their affairs."

He found remnants of Africa in dance, religion, custom and the customs of raising individuals by the week day on which they are born. These bush negroes are descendants of survivors of slaves from Africa, who reached against their Indian masters and took to the jungles. "He" he adopted the African word "treasure" to mean that which is, or unobtainable.

ALBANIANS IN BATTLE OVER KING'S ROMANCE
Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Sept. 17 (AP)—The newspaper Politika carried that fear Ahmed Zogu, king of Albania, may become a Christian if his reported engagement to Princess Eleonora of Italy matures, causes fighting between Albanian Muslims and Catholics at Scutari, Albania. One Catholic priest was killed in a clash.

English Editor Dies
London, Sept. 17 (AP)—Sir Thomas Black, editor-in-chief of the Daily Mail, died today. He was 84 years old.

Grange, who is credited with having obtained the first message from the Miami hurricane area in 1926 and was commended by the navy department for his services, said the message today was being transmitted to an amateur station at Tavares for re-transmission to New Orleans. Signals of the Palm Beach set, evidently operated on batteries, were weak, he said, and Tavares may not have received the message, which was being repeated over and over.
